CLOSING 1 NOVEMBER 2025

The exhibition features six Indonesian contemporary artists who reflect on how Dutch colonialism still shapes life in Indonesia today. The works explore issues like environmental damage caused by extractive mindsets, social structures rooted in colonial systems, and racial class divisions that continue to affect communities. The artists challenge colonial narratives and imagine a decolonial future by highlighting local traditions, community resilience, and forgotten stories.

At seventeen, he reached the finals of the Dutch show 'We Want More,' confirming that writing and telling relatable stories through song was his true passion. He writes songs about life experiences and broken hearts, but always with a twist of hope. His debut album, "Keep It Simple", captures the stories of Boaz and his life's adventures.
